

The Lucy Enos Memorial Scholarship for Teachers

The Lucy Enos Memorial Scholarship for Teachers was established by the Space Foundation on January 14, 2005, to create special professional development opportunities for teachers of Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian ancestry, or teachers working with students of Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian ancestry.

Funding for the Lucy Enos Memorial Scholarship for Teachers is provided by Elliot G. and Cynthia A. Pulham of Colorado Springs. Mr. Pulham is president and chief executive officer of the Space Foundation, and the scholarship honors the memory of his grandmother.

About Lucy Enos: Lucy Enos was born in Pahala, Hawaii, in 1898. Her father was a Scottish immigrant and her mother, Keali'iholokahiki, a native Hawaiian. She married Henry Enos and together they raised a son (Alvin) a daughter (Pauahi) and three adopted children while successfully homesteading a sugar plantation in Pahala and a cattle ranch on lands in Kioloaka'a and Kamaoa. She died in Hilo, Hawaii, in 1976.

About the Scholarship: The Lucy Enos Memorial Scholarship for Teachers provides a unique opportunity for the selected teacher to travel to Colorado Springs and participate in the Space Foundation's annual Summer Institute program. The scholarship provides up to $2,000 spending allowance for the following: travel allowance, meal and lodging expenses, and full tuition and fees for the selected teacher to attend any one of the five week-long in-residence courses that comprise the Summer Institute. The courses cover topics ranging from rocketry and robotics to astronomy and living and working in space, and are designed to help teachers use space themes in their classrooms to enable improved student performance in literacy, science, technology, engineering, mathematics and other subject areas. The teacher may elect to receive continuing education or graduate academic credit for the course, and graduate credit may be applied toward one of several Master's Degrees offered by the Foundation and partner universities.
